President Wilson Said:

"CREDIT MUST BE AT THE DISPOSAL OF ALL ON EQUAL TERMS."

And that is the principal on which we are doing business.

You can get a new Summer Suit as cheaply on CREDIT as you can buy it elsewhere for CASH.

There is no reason why a man should pay more for his clothes when he buys them on credit than for his groceries and meat when he buys them on credit.

Any man or young-man working for wages or a salary, who comes to this store, can get any suit that he wants by paying a few dollars cash, and the balance in small payments.

Our credit is at the disposal of all on equal terms.

KOLLUM.—A flight of more than 1900 miles by aeroplane was completed here by the French aviator Ernest Francois Guillaux.

He made only two stops on his flight from Biarritz, in the extreme south of France, descending to replenish his fuel at Bordeaux and Villacoublay.

The entire trip was made in a little more than twenty-two hours.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Charles T. Littlejohn, Mrs. George Weight of Wailuku and Rebecca Lum Laing, a young girl, were introduced as witnesses for the defense this morning in the adultery case brought against former Representative Samuel Kellinet in federal court. The hearing probably will not be finished for several days.

Governor Frear, on the recommendation of the prison warden, and the attorney general, this morning issued a parole to Kim Woon Sun, who was sentenced to not less than three years' servitude in 1909 for burglary.

Application to the governor for parole has been made for Josiah C. Cyllen, who has been serving a number of small sentences aggregating a total of two and one-half years, all for petty offenses. The application is approved by the warden and attorney general.

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Episcopal church will take place tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at the parish house. Vestment and wardens for the ensuing year will be elected and reports for the past year read.

"BRYAN RICKEY"
IS LATEST DRINK

[By Latest Mail]

WASHINGTON.—A white ribbon drink is now on sale in Washington barrooms. It is called the "Bryan Rickey."

This is how you make the new beverage:

Take half a glass of grape juice, pour over cracked ice, add a dash of lemon juice and some carbonated water.

Supporters of Secretary Bryan's "grape juice diplomacy" who have tasted the new drink say it is excellent.

TRIP TO COAST A PRICE FOR SILENCE

To be supplied with plenty of money and a trip to San Francisco was designated as the price for silence upon the part of Celestino Manalo, who is one of a quartette of Filipinos held upon a charge of murder of a Chinese merchant, Lim Ah Kam, and his wife, Lum See, at a Kahauiki store a week ago last Wednesday evening.

Domingo Rodriguez, the first to come forward with a "confession," is alleged by Celestino to have made this tempting offer to him while both Filipinos occupied cells at the city and county jail following the commission of the crime.

Celestino sent for Chief of Detectives McDuffie this morning, announcing that he had a true and correct statement to make concerning the double murder of the Chinese and his wife.

In the presence of Chief McDuffie, Prosecuting Attorney Brown, Deputy Kellinet, Officer Olson and others, Celestino traced the movements of the party on that evening, from the time that he called upon a relative at Fort Shafter mess, until the completion of the dastardly crime that will go down in the annals as the most atrocious butchery ever committed in Honolulu.

Say Domingo Butchered Both.

Upon the name of Domingo Rodriguez is fastened the responsibility of the double murder, by the now penitent Celestino. He declared this morning, that but a few days ago, while an inmate of the municipal jail, he was threatened by Domingo to the effect that unless he finally told a story that would serve to either clear or lighten the sentence that might be imposed upon Domingo, the Manalo life would be practically valueless when Domingo once gained his liberty. On the other hand, Celestino was to reap in the questionable reward of being sent to the coast, supplied with plenty of money, should all go well with Domingo in the present investigation.

Celestino's story as freely told to Chief McDuffie and Prosecuting Attorney Brown recited incidents that led up to the meeting of the four Filipinos, including Domingo, Hildo, Miguel and Celestino. The latter in his last confession states that Domingo stabbed both the man as well as the woman. The affair was talked over some time before the crime was committed and later carried out according to prearranged program.

Celestino claims that he was on a visit to a cousin at Fort Shafter when he fell in with the three Filipinos. He was in quest of money, but the relative failed to make payment, so all departed for the street railway terminus, where Domingo suggested that they wait awhile. Domingo then outlined the plan for the robbery of the store.

The story of the stabbing as told by Celestino lays the death of the two inmates of the store to the knife and dagger carried by Domingo. These weapons are alleged to have been the property of Domingo. Celestino says that it was he who entered the store, followed a few minutes later by Hildo, Miguel and lastly Celestino. Domingo asked the Chinese for some apples, the storekeeper bending over the box only to receive a thrust from a dagger held by Domingo. Miguel held Lim Ah Kam by the shoulder and neck while the blow was inflicted. Domingo is then alleged to have run to the rear room where he was confronted by the pretty Lum See. One stab from the Domingo dagger sent the woman to her knees.

Hildo is said to have assisted in this death by holding the woman while Domingo sent the knife on its mission of death.

A call from the front of the premises sent Domingo to the store, where he was told by Miguel that the Chinese was not dead. Then followed a rain of blows from both dagger and a large clasp knife, now in the possession of the police. Fifteen or more wounds were inflicted before, in the opinion of the alleged murderer, the victim was dead.

Domingo is then said to have returned to the work of butchery in the bed chamber, and the woman was given a dozen or more blows with the weapons. Domingo is alleged to have made sure of his work of destruction by slashing the throat of each victim. Celestino Opened Cash Drawer.

Celestino admits that he had a hand in the opening and rifling of one of the cash drawers. He turned the money over to Domingo, who later is said to have handed back a dollar or so in small change. To insure the party against possible invasion from the street, Domingo is declared to have closed the front door. Celestino gave a realistic and gruesome exhibition, showing the relative positions of victim and alleged murderer, using officer Orampo to represent the deceased Lim Ah Kam. In acting out the series of movements that served to snuff out two lives, Celestino made it quite plain to the officers just how the majority of the wounds happened to be inflicted upon the right side of the man and woman.

The automatic gun is alleged to have been taken from the hand of the woman, who, upon hearing the sound of a scuffle, and the approach of Domingo, attempted to defend herself by its use. Domingo snatched the gun from the woman, plucked the trigger into her right side, then placed the weapon in his pocket, so says Celestino.

Domingo is credited with having distributed gawson souvenirs in the form of blood-stained knives, to his companions, one being handed to Miguel and another to Celestino. These weapons were afterward thrown

CARTER WORKS HARD IN FIGHT FOR A TARIFF

That former Governor George R. Carter is putting his shoulder to the wheel in royal style and working to the utmost extent of his ability to keep sugar off the free list is evidenced by the following interview in the Washington Post of April 29th, the day following the arrival of Carter in the capital:

"The Democratic party by its treatment of Hawaii in the tariff bill has aroused the people of the islands as they have not been aroused at any time in history," declared former Governor George R. Carter of Hawaii, who came to Washington yesterday as the representative of the Merchants' Association and the chamber of commerce to voice a protest against the proposed revision.

"Hawaii had not the slightest suspicion that the Democratic party would attempt anything so radical as free sugar," continued Gov. Carter, at the New Willard. "We relied on the assurances of the party platform and of the president himself that the new tariff would not destroy any important domestic industry. But the Underwood bill is notice that we are to be buried commercially in three years, and we should make plans for the funeral. After the news of the plan to be followed by the Democrats, business was stopped and a mass meeting of protest in which everybody joined was held."

"Sugar is our one great industry. It provides 85 per cent of the $4,000,000 annually expended by the local government, and, in addition, it pays into Uncle Sam's treasury every year $1,750,000. It educates our 27,000 school children."

"For years Hawaii has been trying to diversify farming, but we are far from our markets. We are dependent on a crop that we can handle and ship in large quantities. We do raise pineapples, but if we attempted to put our 235,000 acres of sugar plantations into pineapples we could not find a market for them."

FOURTH ARREST IS MADE IN LURLINE SMUGGLING MATTER

Four men are now in the toils of the federal officials as the result of the opium smuggling case discovered aboard the steamship Lurline when that vessel arrived here recently from the coast. The fourth arrest was made by U. S. Marshal Hendry and his men yesterday morning, when the Lurline returned from Hilo, Joe Herrera, one of the stewards, being taken into custody.

The other three are Joe Ferreira, Lee Sing and Ah Tin, who were taken from the ship last week. Herrera's bail probably will be set by Commissioner Davis today. Lee Sing already is out on $1000 bail, and Ah Tin, unable to obtain a similar bail bond remains in jail, awaiting his preliminary hearing, which is set for next Wednesday. Lee Sing will be given a hearing Saturday.

into a neighboring swamp. Throughout the confession, Celestino denied having seen anyone strike the woman in the face with a hammer or even with the revolver. Celestino claims to have been the fourth member of the party to enter the store on that fateful night. He admits having seen the murder of the woman committed, standing by the door leading into the bedroom, while the alleged murderer was performing the deed of savagery and death.

The story as told by Celestino goes to more thoroughly establish the identity of Miguel as a participant in the crime. This Filipino has heretofore stoutly maintained that he was not a member of the party on the night in question. Despite the rapid fire interrogations launched at him on a former occasion, Miguel continued his denial of complicity in the affair, claiming that he had attended a Filipino dance at the time the crime was committed.

LARGE AREA TO BE OPENED FOR HOMESTEADERS

One thousand acres of land on windward Oahu are to be thrown open for homestead settlement shortly. This has been determined following the all-day trip around the island last Saturday by Governor Frear, Surveyor Wall and Land Commissioner Joshua Tucker, when they visited Kailua, Kaneohe, Pupukea and Hanalei.

The tracts to be opened are widely scattered and in some instances comparatively small in area. In addition to these a number of beach lots are to be opened for sale along the north beach, for sites on which city dwellers may build cottages for week-end and vacation parties.

The official party visited a large number of government lands on which the existing leases are expiring, to inspect them and determine from their quality whether the soil and general conditions will warrant homesteading. One or two large tracts were found to be too dry for ordinary farming, and these will be leased again for grazing. A number of small tracts now used for rice patches also were found unsuited to agricultural purposes and these probably will be re-leased, to continue as used at present.

At Hanalei the party was entertained at an old-fashioned luau, where all the accessories even to the leis, were provided. The governor and his conferees left Honolulu at 6 o'clock Saturday morning, arriving home at 6:30 that evening, after riding most of the day.

HEAVY DECLINE IN INTER-ISLAND

Hawaiian Commercial and Onomea Fall Off—Other Stocks Steady

Heavy sales of Oahu, firm at 13.25, characterized the stock list today. Between boards 650 shares of Oahu sold at that price, and 115 on the board, in parcels ranging from 200 to 25 shares, while an eighth more is asked for it with an eighth less bid. Onomea declined a point in sales of 15 shares in three equal lots on the board. Hawaiian Commercial lost a quarter point in sales of 60 shares on the board in recess. Pioneer is steady at 18.25 for 150 shares reported, and Olua at 1.75 for 100 shares in recess and 75 on the board. Pineapple maintains 50 for 15 shares in recess.

Inter-island slumped twelve points between boards for 5 and 30 shares at 190. This heavy drop is probably due in part to the reflex action of sugar depression and in part to the transfer of freight business from the fleet to the Hilo railroad.

SALE POSTPONED ON TITLE QUESTION

Ten lots on Palolo Hill were sold at auction by A. O. Stevens at his auction rooms on Saturday. They brought from 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 cents a square foot, meaning bargains for all the buyers.

A homestead on the other side of the island, belonging to the estate of a man who died before fulfilling all the conditions required for title, was withdrawn until Saturday next, to await a written opinion from the commissioner of lands, as the question of title had been raised by an intending bidder.

Next Saturday the sale of the Nuanu Valley residence of the late John A. Cummins will take place at Stevens' rooms.

Three thousand Japanese held a mass meeting in San Francisco to discuss the alien land bill. Americans were barred from the meeting.

WILSON WEDDED TO FREE SUGAR IN THREE YEARS

Despite the president's positive refusal to recognize their contentions the six senators frankly told him they would vote for free sugar as a last alternative when the schedule came before the senate for action.

It was a curious coincidence that as the six senators wrestled with the president and sought to prevent free sugar the house discussed the obnoxious schedule and later adopted it by an overwhelming majority. Three of the Louisiana Representatives deserted their colors at the last minute and co-operated with the free sugar Democrats. Each and every amendment proposed by those opposed to free sugar was quickly voted down.

Kuhie's Speech a Hit.

A feature of the debate in the house was the speech made by Delegate Kalaniana'ole. Although allowed but a modicum of time in which to present the Hawaiian situation he made good use of it. He told in succinct language existing conditions in the territory and predicted the turning over of the islands to Asiatics in the event of all duty being removed from sugar. He said white men would be unable to maintain themselves on the islands and would be driven out and the sugar industry turned over to those who could afford to conduct plantations on cheaper lines. He said the wages paid all white employees must necessarily be lowered. He urged consideration for the ruin that threatened Hawaii.

At the same time a letter was read in the senate from the Bishop of Honolulu. It was addressed to Senator Works and formed a supplement to one presented to the senate some days ago. It declared that the Japanese would soon dominate all things in Hawaii if sugar became free. He presented some facts and arguments to demonstrate that with the present large population of Japanese, given at 80,000, it would be easy for them to secure control of the sugar industry and through it exert domination over the islands.

Senator Thornton's Position.

Mr. Thornton of Louisiana is the first senator to come out flatfooted and announce his opposition to free sugar. In explaining his position, Mr. Thornton says:

"I am in thorough accord with the view expressed by President Wilson that a tariff bill should be so framed as to encourage competition and prevent monopoly. But the pending tariff bill, in so far as it concerns sugar, will have just the opposite effect. The provision for free sugar, without doubt, will put the entire control of the sugar industry of the United States in the hands of the big refiners. At the present time they are meeting with very effective competition from the domestic sugar industry. Its effect has been, and now is, to cheapen the cost of sugar to the consumer."

"The admission of the refiners themselves under examination before various congressional committees shows that for several years they have been annoyed and embarrassed by the rapid growth of this competition, which cuts into the profits from the operation of their refineries for several months each year. They have declared that without tariff they have nothing to fear from the competition of foreign refiners. They are seeking the removal of the only competition from which they have anything to fear."

"In view of this situation, it is easy to see that free sugar will result only in the destruction of competition, and the opening of the way to the establishment of a burdensome and oppressive monopoly, able to impose its will upon the public, and to exact higher prices from the consumer."

William St. John Rahney, chief clerk of the auditor of the Santa Fe railroad and a prominent Pasadena society man, has been arrested charged with having embezzled $60,000 from Santa Fe funds. The thefts have been going on over a period of six years.

THE INCREASE in the volume of freight passing over the Western Pacific Railway for Honolulu merchants is due to the fact that there are fewer delays and better service generally than is secured by shippers over other lines. We will be glad to supply information.
